APCR 2020 Annual Meeting Recap

The APCR 2020 Annual Meeting, held virtually on November 9, 2020, was a success! Our speakers, all veteran members of the APCR Board of Trustees, presented two timely sessions on Clinical Research in the COVID Pandemic and Social Justice in Clinical Research. In the former, a panel of speakers engaged in an insightful discussion about both the interruptions to and the advancements within clinical research that have occurred during the pandemic. In the latter, Dr. Michael Koren, MD, CPI, FAPCR addressed the importance of social justice in public health and ethically supporting minority patients and investigators.

The speaker presentations and video recording of the meeting are available for members on the APCR website.

2020 - 2021 Board of Trustees

With another year comes another unique team of officers and trustees! Congratulations to the four new officers, who have done great work with APCR in the past and will continue to lead the organization in its mission to uphold the excellence of investigators and pharmaceutical physicians.

Each member of the 2020-2021 Board of Trustees brings many years of experience and expertise, and we look forward to their contributions.

Research University

APCR aims to provide its members with ample educational resources to help them reach their professional goals as clinical research physicians. One such resource is the diverse collection of Research University webinars. Originally presented in 2019, these webinars are designed for APCR members and other physicians with an interest in advancing their knowledge in starting up, managing, and/or operating a successful clinical trial program. Topics include Building a Research Team, Clinical Research Budget Issues and Solutions, and Developing Clinical Research in Private Practice.

Be sure to visit the APCR website to view these informative presentations. If you have any suggestions for future webinar topics, please reach out to us at info@apcrnet.org.
